

the SPIRIT

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 2026 | THE FOURTH SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY

Today, a celebration of 20 years of awe, silence, and radical welcome

On the first Sunday in February 2006, St. Stephen's Church held its inaugural Celtic-inspired worship service. This weekend, its 20th anniversary, we are embracing and honoring the many ways this visionary contemplative service has touched and shaped individual lives alongside the large life and consciousness of St. Stephen's, and continues to do so.

This weekend's events include the leadership and preaching of Dr. Westina Matthews, a highly-sought author, speaker, teacher and leader among spiritual directors. She led a retreat here yesterday, and this morning she will preach during the 9 and 11:15 a.m. services and conclude the Sunday Forum series, "New perspectives on contemplative life."

The 5:30 Celtic service will include extra prelude music beginning at 5:20 and the premier of new sacred pieces composed for the 20th anniversary by Michael Simpson, who will join our musicians for the service (see next announcement). A program at the Sunday community supper (6:30-7:45) will include highlights from the "Love letters to the Celtic Service" project; volunteer recognition; a panel discussion featuring Michael Simpson, Guy Frank, and Susan Wilkes; and the dedication of the portrait of the former rector, the Rev. Gary Jones, who developed the Celtic service and through it centered radical hospitality and contemplative life at the heart of St. Stephen's Church.

Music notes for this evening's Celtic Evensong and Communion

The music for this evening's Celtic service was selected by current associate director of music Diana Chou and former associate director of music Michael Simpson. With gratitude we welcome him back to St. Stephen's Church to share in playing piano for this evening's service. It will encompass many pieces and composers with a long history at the service, as well as some more newly-introduced compositional voices that have joined the service's continually expanding musical "canon" and soundscape in recent years. Michael and Diana have chosen some of their very favorite pieces from their combined years of playing at St. Stephen's, and they are joined by flutist Sue DeJesus, who has played for the Celtic service since its earliest days here, and longtime Celtic cantor Abby Outlaw. The second candle-lighting piece will be a setting of the traditional Irish tune, "The lark in the clear air," composed by Joseph Martin especially for our Celtic community and dedicated to the music ministry of St. Stephen's.

Michael has also composed new service music in honor of this weekend's 20th anniversary celebration. We look forward to premiering his new Sanctus and Lamb of God settings and singing those over the next few weeks, as well as at regular intervals in the future!

New series begins in the forum next Sunday: 'Liturgy Unplugged'

Episcopalians are a people deeply connected to our shared worship. Much of our Episcopal formation takes place during worship, through the use of the Book of Common Prayer and other resources. In this series, join St. Stephen's clergy as we take a deep dive into the shape and content of the Eucharistic service, discovering what our worship has to tell us about living in the world faithfully. For the first Sunday in this series, February 8, the Rev. Cate Anthony will focus on "The Liturgy of the Word," examining the first half of the Eucharist. We'll consider the role of Scripture in worship as well as the origins and purpose of our wide variety of prayers. In this deep dive, we will explore the ways this aspect of our worship shapes our personal prayer and public witness as faithful Christians.

The 2026 vestry slate

ANNUAL MEETING: SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 22 | 10:10 A.M.

At the upcoming parish meeting, we will vote on a slate of parishioners to serve three-year terms on the vestry. A vestry-appointed nominating committee composed of outgoing vestry members and at-large members received suggestions from you about people to consider, and they are pleased to present the following slate: James Driscoll, Meg Eckman, Wortie Ferrell, Darrell Headrick, Chip Jamerson, and Katie Webb. Thank you to the committee, those who made suggestions, and those who agreed to have their names put forward. Information and photos: ststephensRVA.org/vestry-nominees.

Sunday morning for parents

SUNDAYS AT 10:10 A.M.

Many Parents, One Vine is a weekly formation group for parents offering mutual support and fellowship as we reflect on the challenges and blessings of parenting faithfully in the modern age. This spring, the group will focus on a Bible study using the Gospel of the day. As we dive into the Scripture, reflecting on the word of God and its message for us, we'll use it as a springboard for conversations about life, parenting, and faith. We meet in Room 14. No prior experience is required. Questions: the Rev. Cate Anthony, canthony@ststephensRVA.org.

Participate in a family ministry discernment process

The family ministry guild is a group of St. Stephen's parishioners who work with church staff to plan and lead ministries for children, youth, and parents. The guild has commissioned a discernment process concerning formation for these groups at St. Stephen's Church. Through a prayerful process, we seek to discover the shape, purpose, and priorities of the breadth of family ministries at this moment in the life of the parish. The discernment group will engage a broad array of parishioners through a variety of means including facilitated focus groups for both children's and youth ministries, and a survey. Using the information gathered and working with an outside consultant, the guild and staff will adapt formation offerings, integrating what we learn to respond meaningfully to the needs of contemporary families. All are welcome to participate and we especially invite parents of children from birth to age 18 to join us for one of these important conversations. We also welcome other adults who have served as volunteers in children's or youth ministry. Scan the QR code to sign up. Questions: the Rev. Cate Anthony, canthony@ststephensRVA.org.

Invitation to the Episcopal Church

WEDNESDAYS AT 6:30 P.M., FEBRUARY 25 THROUGH APRIL 15

Invitation to the Episcopal Church is a series for those who are newer here or those who are familiar but newly curious. This introductory class is ideal for meeting others and exploring more about the Episcopal Church; topics include our unique identity and perspective, origins, worship, beliefs, practices, and more. This is excellent preparation if you are considering becoming an Episcopalian through the Rite of Confirmation or Reception; reaffirm your faith; or, if you are an adult who has not been baptized, this is preparation for that sacrament. Most of all, this is a supportive place to ask questions big and small. It will be co-led by the Rev. Will Stanley and the Rev. John Jenkins in our café. Scan the QR code to register.

Outreach grant application available

The application process for outreach grants began January 15, and applications are due February 13. If you are involved with a local organization that would like to apply for a grant, please send them to ststephensRVA.org/outreach/partnerships for an application and further details.

Take part in the Prayers of the People

The “Prayers of the People” are a key part of corporate worship each Sunday. At St. Stephen’s Church, they take a variety of forms throughout the church year and across different worship services: our traditional 8 a.m. service, the Palmer Hall service, the 9 and 11:15 a.m. services, and the Celtic service. Consistent threads involve our prayers for the life of our world, nation, and community, including the hard realities of suffering and death. Finding ways to offer prayers that honor both the universality and the particularity of our human experience is a constant opportunity and challenge. If you’ve worshipped with us over the past few weeks, you may have noticed that we no longer pray by name for certain groups of people or places of conflict, suffering, and loss. Rather, we are inviting each person gathered to join in: specifically, for “those people and places we name now, either silently or aloud.” We have made this shift to allow for the fullness of our community’s experience—the truths on our hearts—to be offered in prayer, in all their diversity. So the next time we say the Prayers of the People, please join us.

Share your gifts; discover new connections

When the Spirit of God stirs you to seek new connections in fellowship, or growth in Christian formation groups, or ministries that serve the world or the church, two resources are available to you. Everything St. Stephen’s Church offers is open to all people year-round through the Connect and Serve web page (accessible from the top menu on St. Stephen’s home page, ststephensRVA.org) which offers helpful information about the full breadth of ministries, fellowship, and formation offerings. (Note that some small groups have fall and winter start and end dates.) You’ll find a form where you may request more information or declare your interest in enrolling in a ministry. Jennifer Bousquet, St. Stephen’s director of outreach and engagement, and the Rev. John Jenkins, associate rector, wholeheartedly welcome and invite a personal conversation to explore new possibilities and next steps; schedule a time by emailing one of them (jbousquet or jjenkins@ststephensRVA.org) or calling 804.288.2867.

Building on the Rev. Samuel Wells' visit to St. Stephen's in November 2025, this class has been using his Being With curriculum to dive into questions about creation care, a theology of creation, and how Christians can contend with the climate crisis. Being With: Creation sessions include time for shared wondering, a short "talk," and time for reflective conversation. Sessions are moderated by the Rev. Cate Anthony. All are welcome. The remaining session is this Wednesday, February 4, "What can we do?"

Upcoming ordinations

Two ordinations of interest to the people of St. Stephen's Church will take place soon. The Rt. Rev. Gayle Harris, Assistant Bishop of Virginia, will ordain the Rev. Bart Natoli, along with Jackson Davey and Ted Renaud, to the Sacred Order of Priests on February 7 at 10:30 a.m. at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Richmond (520 N. Arthur Ashe Blvd). St. Stephen's Church sponsored Bart, currently a transitional deacon, for ordination. On March 7 at 10:30 a.m., Bishop Harris will ordain Paige Trivett to the Sacred Order of Deacons, along with John Hager, Joshua House, and Emily Rutledge. The service takes place at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in McLean, and a livestream will be available on St. Dunstan's website. For directions to St. Dunstan's or to see the livestream, visit stdunstans.net. Paige served as our summer seminarian last year. All are invited to these services, and are asked to keep these servants in your prayers.
